

Mock Trial of a Domestic Violence Case

Despite increasing public awareness of the brutality and frequency of domestic violence, these devastating acts continue to occur in alarming numbers among all levels of society. In New Jersey, the Prevention of Domestic Violence Act provides the rubric for handling this type of case.

This seminar will focus on the statute and the recent case law that has developed. A panel of experienced attorneys will be joined by a Presiding Family Part Judge, a counselor with expertise in domestic violence matters, and a domestic violence legal advocate to provide you with the essentials for handling a domestic violence matter from both the plaintiff's and defendant's perspectives.
